Architectural Survey File

This is the architectural survey file for this MIHP record. The survey file is organized reverse-chronological (that is, with the latest material on top). It contains all MIHP inventory forms, National Register nomination forms, determinations of eligibility (DOE) forms, and accompanying documentation such as photographs and maps.

Users should be aware that additional undigitized material about this property may be found in on-site architectural reports, copies of HABS/HAER or other documentation, drawings, and the “vertical files” at the MHT Library in Crownsville. The vertical files may include newspaper clippings, field notes, draft versions of forms and architectural reports, photographs, maps, and drawings. Researchers who need a thorough understanding of this property should plan to visit the MHT Library as part of their research project; look at the MHT web site (mht.maryland.gov) for details about how to make an appointment.

All material is property of the Maryland Historical Trust.

HO- 40

MOUNDLAND

Simpsonville, Maryland

Private

Built in 1846 by Mr. Stewart for his daughter who married Mr.

Worthington of Worthington's Quarters, Moundland is a five bay wide, two bay deep gabled roof stone structure with a two bay wide shed roof south wing.

Two brick chimneys are inset into its north and south walls.

A central rectangular west door is flanked by rectangular windows with six-over-six lites, decorated with flat stone lintels and projecting flat stone sills. The three central west bays are covered by a wide flat roofed portico supported by four wooden posts which is approached by two wide granite steps. The Georgian element is seen in the central rectangular entrance surmounted by a three lite transom and flanked by vertical lites as well as the vertically aligned and proportionally scaled fenestration.

The interior features original cross and open bible paneled as well as proportionally scaled paneled doors, a patented Carpenter Lock, Holy Lord hinges and an outstanding staircase with tulip poplar bannister in the front hall.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (if known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE
Moundland is located ½ mile south of Kindler Road on the south side of Route 32. It is composed of two sections, the larger being a five bay wide, two and a half story gabled roof stone structure which faces west and features a simple cornice, central rectangular entrance, double-hung windows with six-over-six lites, flat stone lintels, projecting stone sills, white shutters on the first floor and black shutters on the second, stone quoining on its ashlar stone facade and two brick chimneys with caps set into its north and south walls (these chimneys have two rows of corbeled brick topped with slate). Two granite steps lead to a wide west portico which covers the three central bays, the central rectangular double door with three lite paneled entrance, surmounted by a three lite transome and flanked by four vertical lites. The portico is supported by four wooden posts. A patented lock on the front door, Carpenter & Co., has the initials Wm Rex - 4th which stands for the English King William IV, dating the lock in the early 1830's. (All hardward at that time was imported from England.) Four nine lite basement windows rest under the first floor windows of the west wall and three six lite basement windows on the east. Seven granite steps on the east facade lead to another wooden porch with granite base which forms the base for a hipped roof portico which covers the two central bays (the east facade hold only four vertically aligned windows, the first floor windows being jib doors) and is held by round columns and half columns. A central double-hung rectangular window holds six-over-six lites on the third floor of the north and south walls. A two story high two bay wide and two bay deep shed roof south wing holds two second floor double-hung six-over-six windows on its west wall and a rectangular west entrance door surmounted by a three lite transom. The east wall of this section of the house holds two first and second floor windows. Three large granite steps lead to a wooden open porch on the south wall and another two granite steps to a rectangular kitchen door. The interior of the house indicates that both sections are tied together and were built at one time. The south chimneys of the north wing and the north chimney in the kitchen or south wing all come together in the attic and contain flues from the kitchen and one living room. A system of laths and studs can also be seen in the attic. Open bible and cross paneled doors as well as Holy Lord hinges can be seen throughout the house. Such hinges were in use in the early seven-teen hundreds. Much of the original interior work of the house remains in the form of original hardward (locks and keys) as well as the moderately randam width floors and fine mantles of 1840. The central front hall holds an outstanding staircase with a tulip poplar bannister. This hall leads into the eastern half of the house which is divided into two large rooms by hugh double doors which feature (continued)

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Moundland's significance lies both in its architecture and its history.

It is representative of the fine stone houses which dot Howard County. More importantly its original integrity has been maintained and insured by its owners.

Its association with the family of Thomas Worthington (Kate Stewart, whose father built Moundland for her, married young Worthington of Worthington's Quarters) give it historical significance.

Any future local landmarks legislation should include this outstanding building and its inclusion into the National Register of Historic Places should be considered.

BUILDER/ARCHITECT Thomas Stewart

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Moundland House
Howard County, Maryland

Moundland's significance lies both in its architecture and its history.

The area was one of the first to be developed in the early 19th century in close proximity to old Christ Church which was the social center for the families of Howard County. This district holds a variety of buildings built in stone, brick and frame ship lap and denoting a number of architectural styles ranging from the early Georgian, as expressed in the simple architecture of Worthington's Quarters and Wild Wood, to the more formal ashlar granite block structures of Moundland and Granite Park.

Architecturally, Moundland is representative of the fine ashlar granite block construction of the early 19th century. Both Moundland and its neighbor, Granite Park, have grand double parlors, fine staircases with central hall and large well-lighted rooms. Their exterior features granite block lintels and projecting stone sills, as well as pleasing, well-proportioned, symmetrical facades with central porticos over central entrances. The two houses form a notable architectural ensemble, however, Moundland has more of its original panelling and was built on a more grandiose scale.

Moundland is associated with the history of Howard County and the history of the Worthington family, one of Maryland's earliest and most distinguished families. The house was built in 1846 by Thomas Stewart for his daughter, Kate, who married Charles Griffith Worthington, Jr. Howard County was established in 1851, and Charles Worthington, Jr., Thomas H. Hood, and William J. Timanus were elected as the first County Commissioners. The house is shown on the 1860 Martenet's Map of Howard County Maryland with the notation "C.G. Worthington".

proportionally scaled paneling. When opened they create a large interior space for dancing or receptions.

The double-pile organization of the house features a central first and second floor hall leading into two large east rooms and from which a north and south room on the west emerge.

On the east a beautiful formal boxwood garden with new hedge is seen which is connected to the house by a flagstone patio. Lovely gardens and grounds surround the house. Especially noteworthy is the small statue of St. Francis on the south.
